Memory of Tomorrow (Francesca Levy Book 1) Anton Galperin

Franchesca Levy thought she was walking into another normal day at the office, working a case commissioned by the Lunerian Police. So what if it wasn't exactly her domestic playground, she could stand her ground pretty well; plus, Earth was starting to be a little taxing, and a job somewhere else in the universe seemed like it would be a good change of scenery. Little did she know what she was getting herself into. Chess quickly finds herself talking to red Lunerian detectives like its her second nature, and a very surprising partner whom she never would have expected to encounter. But this is only the beginning. Will she be able to solve the case in time? Will it be enough? Detective Francesca Levy is about to face a form of evil that has been dormant and waiting for millenia for this opportunity in time. She will have to learn to control her soul, her mind and her heart alike to attain an inner and outer equilibrium, which will be the only way for her and her loved ones to survive.
