Ezra Anna St George

Ezra is the story of a spirited young man named Ezra Cullen working as a labourer on his Uncle's sheep station in the wild southwest of Australia in the 1960s. He is anything but your average twenty-three year old who has never had an average lifestyle growing up accommodating his father's travelling career. With a quirky attitude to boast and giant goanna for a pet he receives an unexpected visit out of the blue one day from the well-esteemed Mr Cavendish. He informs Ezra that his grandfather whom he has never met is on his deathbed and he is about to inherit a huge fortune. Since Ezra's father and grandfather had suffered irreconcilable differences in their relationship Ezra has never met his grandfather but now he finds himself the heir to a great estate in Ireland and his life changes overnight. But it is far more than he could have imagined or bargained for as he accompanies Cavendish back to Ireland and the conditions concerning the old house carry over straight away. Mr Cavendish and the will state he is heir of the...old house...and in his mind Ezra imagines just that; some big old house in need of repair. But the old house surpasses his wildest dreams as the old house is indeed more than just an old house in much need of restoration. Family loyalty and heritage rise up within the young man and he takes on the task of restoring the old house however strange things begin to happen as he discovers things about his family history and past that he never bargained for. His domineering grandmother takes the role of matchmaker; determined to find him a wife and causing complications and there is the mysterious arrival of an Irish wolfhound who appears out of nowhere when he moves into the old house and various oppositions arise to cause him frustration with the building work. But worst of all are the rumours of hauntings in the old house. Ezra is a handsome young man of courage and faith in God but is it enough to carry out the restoration work and restore his family and secure the heart of the girl he loves?
